IDENTITY PROJECT
Animals
BY CONNOR JONES

How animals identify me ?

Animals identify me cause I have always loved them and I am both a cat and dog person myself. I am thinking of working as a vet to help animals. One of my most favorite things is to come home and either play with my dog or scratch him if I am in a bad mood. My dog and other animals cheer me up, even looking at a picture of a dog, cat or another animals makes me happy.

What about animals interests me?

What interests me about animals is that they can do some extraordinary and helpful things. Dogs can help the blind walk and help them get place to place. Some animals are funny -like how a cat can say 'oh long Johnson' is pretty amusing.

What about animals makes it important to me ?

Animals take up a big part of my life because I have always had a dog and I have learned responsibility. I help feed him, make sure he has water and take him out for bathroom breaks.

Taking care of animals teaches you a lot about yourself. I've learned to be patient, gentle, and understanding.

What should people know about animals ?

What people should know about animals is that they are very important to us. They give us food, they can cheer us up and they can do a lot more things like being funny. Without animals our lives would be different. Our lives would be dull without animals and we wouldn't be able to experience some feelings like joy, pride, or like surprise.

Owning an animal has health benefits. It can help you stay calm, lower your blood pressure and makes you exercise by playing and walking your pet.

Why I picked animals ?

I picked animals because they make up a big part of my life . I have always had a dog and it has always made a big part of my life. Dogs have taught me responsibility, caring , and ownership and I first started loving them when my old dog max came into my life.
